

EURONEXT DERIVATIVES NOTICE

Paris Market	No. NO200129DE1
Issue Date:	29 January 2020
Effective Date:	7 February 2020

INTRODUCTION OF SINGLE STOCK DIVIDEND FUTURES ON ATOS SE

Executive Summary

This Notice informs Members of the introduction of Single Stock Dividend Futures on ATOS SE on the Paris Derivatives Market on 7 February 2020.

1. Introduction

1.1 Euronext intends to launch additional Single Stock Dividend Futures (SSDF) on the Paris Derivatives Market on 7 February 2020:

Trading symbol	Name	ISIN code shares	Relevant exchange	SSDF trading currency
AT8	ATOS SE	FR0000051732	Euronext Paris	EUR

- 1.2 An SSDF is a future on the cumulative value of ordinary gross cash dividends declared by the relevant company over a reference period. For non-US underlyings, the reference period starts on the day following the third Friday in December and ends on the third Friday in March, June, September or December (the expiry date) three, six, nine or twelve months later. For US underlyings, the reference period starts on the day following the third Friday in January and ends on the third Friday in January (the expiry date) one year later.
- 1.3 The underlying value of an SSDF is the dividend payments in relation to a contract size of 10,000 shares. The tick size is EUR/USD/CHF/NOK/SEK 0.0001 (EUR/USD/CHF/NOK/SEK 1 per contract) or GBX 0.01 (GBX 100 per contract) and open positions remaining after the last day of trading will lead to cash settlement. The full contract specifications are set out in attachment 1.

2. Market Maker information

2.1 The obligations and benefits for Market Makers are described in the Market Making Scheme for Derivative Markets document as published on the Euronext website.

The Euronext Markets comprise the markets operated by Euronext Amsterdam, Euronext Brussels, Euronext Dublin, Euronext Lisbon, Euronext London, Euronext Paris and Oslo Børs, referred to respectively as the Amsterdam, Brussels, Dublin, Lisbon, London, Paris and Oslo markets, as relevant. Euronext refers to Euronext N.V. and its affiliates. ©2020. Euronext N.V. - All rights reserved.

- 2.2 Qualifying Members wishing to apply for a Market Maker role should complete the online Market Making Registration Form available on our Connect2 portal at connect2.euronext.com. By submitting the Market Making Registration Form the member will confirm the Market Making Agreement. The Market Making Agreement, as published on the Euronext website will consist of the following:
  - Market Making General Terms and Conditions.
  - Market Making Operational Terms.
  - Market Making Registration Form and, where appropriate, any Update Form.

 Further information:
 Operational Client Services Dest clientsupport@euronext.com

 Belgium +32 2 620 0585
 France +33 1 8514 8585
 Ireland: +353 1 617 4289

 Netherlands +31 20 721 9585
 Portugal +351 2 1060 8585
 UK +44 20 7660 8585

Attachment 1

The contract specifications for Single Stock Dividend Futures are as follows:

Contract size	Dividend payments in relation to a contract size of 10,000 shares
Unit of trading	10,000
Pricing unit/quotation	EUR/USD/CHF/GBX/NOK/SEK per share
Minimum price movement	EUR/USD/CHF/NOK/SEK 0.0001 (EUR/USD/CHF/NOK/SEK 1.00 per contract)
(tick size and value)	GBX 0.01 (GBX 100.00 per contract)
Expiry months	For SSDFs with annual expiries:
	12, 24, 36, 48 and 60 months (of the December cycle for non-US underlyings; of the January cycle for all US underlyings)
	For SSDFs with semi-annual expiries (non-US underlyings only):
	6, 12, 18, 24, 30, 36, 42, 48, 54 and 60 months (of the June-December cycle)
	For SSDFs with quarterly expiries (non-US underlyings only):
	3, 6, 9, 12, 15, 18, 21, 24 months quarterly (of the March, June, September,
	December cycle); 30, 36, 42, 48, 54, 60 months half-yearly (of the June, December cycle)
Introduction of new expiry	New expiry months are available for trading on the first business day after the months	expiry of a maturity
Wholesale services	Large-in-Scale Facility
Trading bours	(minimum size 10 contracts) Central Order Book 09:00 – 17:30 CET
Trading hours	Large-in-Scale Facility 07:00 – 18:30 CET
The diam is latter as
Trading platform	Optiq
Algorithm	Central Order Book applies a price-time trading algorithm with priority given to the first order at the best price
Last trading day	Trading ceases at 12:00 CET on the third Friday of the expiry month. In the event that the third Friday is not a business day, the Last Trading Day shall normally be the last business day preceding the third Friday
Settlement	Cash settlement based on the EDSP
Settlement day	First business day after the day on which the EDSP is published
Exchange Delivery Settlement	The final settlement value as established by Euronext at 12:00 (CET) on the third
Price (EDSP)	Friday of the expiry month, determined to four decimal places.
· · ·	Dividend rules:
	1. The final settlement value is equal to the cumulative value of ordinary dividends declared by the relevant company without an adjustment for withholding taxes, tax credits or tax repayments. Declared ordinary dividends are taken into account if their ex-date falls on or between, the start and end date of the reference period of the relevant expiry. For non-
	US underlyings, the reference period starts on the day following the third Friday in December and ends on the third Friday in March, June, September or December (the expiry date) three, six, nine or twelve months later. For US underlyings, the reference period starts on the day following the third

Friday in January and ends on the third Friday in January (the expiry date) one year later.2. Dividends that are declared special or extraordinary by the issuer are normally excluded.3. If a dividend is distributed in the form of shares only and if this is regarded as ordinary dividend, the cash equivalent is taken into account. If no cash value is declared by the issuer, the cash value will be determined based on the official closing price of the share on the relevant cash market on the cum-day (the business day prior to the ex-dividend date).4. If shareholders may choose between cash or shares, the cash option is chosen.5. A dividend future refers to a dividend that is paid in the same currency as the trading currency of the dividend future. If a dividend is declared in another currency than the futures contract currency, will be used ("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount in the futures contract currency will be used ("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.If on the ex-date the published dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cum- day (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published dividend amount bill be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cum- day (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount is nublished by the company) the SSDF dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted fividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date but the <ol> <li>Dividends that are declared special or extraordinary by the issuer are normally excluded.</li> <li>If a dividend is distributed in the form of shares only and if this is regarded as ordinary dividend, the cash equivalent is taken into account. If no cash value is declared by the issuer, the cash value will be determined based on the official closing price of the share on the relevant cash market on the cum-day (the business day prior to the ex-dividend date).</li> <li>If shareholders may choose between cash or shares, the cash option is chosen.</li> <li>A dividend future refers to a dividend that is paid in the same currency as the trading currency of the dividend future. If a dividend is declared in another currency than the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount in the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount is hould not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cum-day (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expire the ex-date of the previous business day.</li> <li>For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ol>
<ul> <li>normally excluded.</li> <li>3. If a dividend is distributed in the form of shares only and if this is regarded as ordinary dividend, the cash equivalent is taken into account. If no cash value is declared by the issuer, the cash value will be determined based on the official closing price of the share on the relevant cash market on the cum-day (the business day prior to the ex-dividend date).</li> <li>4. If shareholders may choose between cash or shares, the cash option is chosen.</li> <li>5. A dividend future refers to a dividend future. If a dividend is declared in another currency than the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount in the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount on the a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is published by the company) the SSDF dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be reconverted dividend amount is nown before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be reconverted dividend amount is nown before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is nown before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date but the equivalent dividend amount will be recalculated on the expire rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>3. If a dividend is distributed in the form of shares only and if this is regarded as ordinary dividend, the cash equivalent is taken into account. If no cash value is declared by the issuer, the cash value will be determined based on the official closing price of the share on the relevant cash market on the cum-day (the business day prior to the ex-dividend date).</li> <li>4. If shareholders may choose between cash or shares, the cash option is chosen.</li> <li>5. A dividend future refers to a dividend that is paid in the same currency as the trading currency of the dividend future. If a dividend is declared in another currency than the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount in the futures contract currency, the published equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount will be reconverted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount will be reconverted by replacing the converted hy the spire to the expire the spire day the spire the spire day the spire the spire day the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will de</li></ul>
<ul> <li>as ordinary dividend, the cash equivalent is taken into account. If no cash value is declared by the issuer, the cash value will be determined based on the official closing price of the share on the relevant cash market on the cum-day (the business day prior to the ex-dividend date).</li> <li>4. If shareholders may choose between cash or shares, the cash option is chosen.</li> <li>5. A dividend future refers to a dividend that is paid in the same currency as the trading currency of the dividend future. If a dividend is declared in another currency than the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount in the futures contract currency will be used ("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published dividend amount by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the</li></ul>		normally excluded.
<ul> <li>value is declared by the issuer, the cash value will be determined based on the official closing price of the share on the relevant cash market on the cum-day (the business day prior to the ex-dividend date).</li> <li>4. If shareholders may choose between cash or shares, the cash option is chosen.</li> <li>5. A dividend future refers to a dividend that is paid in the same currency as the trading currency of the dividend future. If a dividend is declared in another currency than the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount in the futures contract currency will be used ("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount is most not more after the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount will be reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		3. If a dividend is distributed in the form of shares only and if this is regarded
<ul> <li>the official closing price of the share on the relevant cash market on the cum-day (the business day prior to the ex-dividend date).</li> <li>4. If shareholders may choose between cash or shares, the cash option is chosen.</li> <li>5. A dividend future refers to a dividend that is paid in the same currency as the trading currency of the dividend future. If a dividend is declared in another currency than the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount in the futures contract currency will be used ("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is not shown the dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted of widend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date.</li> <li>but</li></ul>		as ordinary dividend, the cash equivalent is taken into account. If no cash
<ul> <li>cum-day (the business day prior to the ex-dividend date).</li> <li>If shareholders may choose between cash or shares, the cash option is chosen.</li> <li>A dividend future refers to a dividend that is paid in the same currency as the trading currency of the dividend future. If a dividend is declared in another currency than the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount in the futures contract currency will be used ("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cumday (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted SDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		value is declared by the issuer, the cash value will be determined based on
<ul> <li>4. If shareholders may choose between cash or shares, the cash option is chosen.</li> <li>5. A dividend future refers to a dividend that is paid in the same currency as the trading currency of the dividend future. If a dividend is declared in another currency than the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount in the futures contract currency will be used ("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cumday (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date but the equivalent dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date but the equivalent dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date bu using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		the official closing price of the share on the relevant cash market on the
<ul> <li>chosen.</li> <li>5. A dividend future refers to a dividend that is paid in the same currency as the trading currency of the dividend future. If a dividend is declared in another currency than the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount in the futures contract currency will be used ("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cumday (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		cum-day (the business day prior to the ex-dividend date).
<ul> <li>5. A dividend future refers to a dividend that is paid in the same currency as the trading currency of the dividend future. If a dividend is declared in another currency than the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount in the futures contract currency will be used ("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cumday (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is nount is published by the company) the SSDF dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date but the equivalent dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		4. If shareholders may choose between cash or shares, the cash option is
<ul> <li>the trading currency of the dividend future. If a dividend is declared in another currency than the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount in the futures contract currency will be used ("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cumday (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date but the equivalent dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date bu using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>another currency than the futures contract currency, the published equivalent amount in the futures contract currency will be used ("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cumday (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>equivalent amount in the futures contract currency will be used ("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cum- day (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cumday (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be realculated on the expiry date, the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational purposes.</li> <li>If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cumday (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul> purposes. If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cum- day (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is known (the amount is published by the company) the SSDF dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day. 6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.		("equivalent dividend amount"); for clarification, the published equivalent
If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cum- day (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is known (the amount is published by the company) the SSDF dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date, the reference rate of the previous business day. 6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.		amount should not be a converted value that is shown for informational
<ul> <li>that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cumday (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is known (the amount is published by the company) the SSDF dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		purposes.
<ul> <li>converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cum- day (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB.</li> <li>When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is known (the amount is published by the company) the SSDF dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		If on the ex-date the published dividend amount is only available in a currency
<ul> <li>day (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB. When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is known (the amount is published by the company) the SSDF dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date but the equivalent dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		that deviates from the futures contract currency, the dividend amount will be
<ul> <li>based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB.</li> <li>When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is known (the amount is published by the company) the SSDF dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date but the equivalent dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		converted ("converted dividend amount") using the reference rate for the cum-
<ul> <li>When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent dividend amount is known (the amount is published by the company) the SSDF dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date but the equivalent dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		day (the business day prior to the ex-date). In principle the reference rate will be
<ul> <li>dividend amount is known (the amount is published by the company) the SSDF dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date but the equivalent dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		based on the foreign exchange reference rates as published daily by the ECB.
<ul> <li>dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date but the equivalent dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		When on or after the ex-date, but before the SSDF expiry date, the equivalent
<ul> <li>equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date but the equivalent dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		dividend amount is known (the amount is published by the company) the SSDF
<ul> <li>but the equivalent dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date, the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		dividend amount is adjusted by replacing the converted dividend amount by the
<ul> <li>the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		equivalent dividend amount. When the ex-date is before the SSDF expiry date
<ul> <li>the reference rate of the previous business day.</li> <li>6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.</li> </ul>		but the equivalent dividend amount is not known before the SSDF expiry date,
6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.		the converted dividend amount will be recalculated on the expiry date by using appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.		the reference rate of the previous business day.
		6. For cases not covered by these rules, Euronext will determine an
Clearing organization LCH S.A.		appropriate adjustment or repayment to be made.
	Clearing organization	LCH S.A.

Regarding Corporate Actions in SSDFs with US underlyings the following applies for technical reasons: in case of a Corporate Action where the price of the underlying is needed to calculate the adjusted contract specification, no trading is allowed in the respective SSDF on the effective date of the Corporate Action. The adjustment will be based on the official US close price of the underlying on the day before the effective date of the Corporate Action, and the changes to the referential of the SSDF contract will be entered into the system on the effective date. If the effective date is not a Euronext business day, the contract will also be closed the business day after the effective date. In case the effective date of an adjustable event is on the last trading day of the contract (normally the last trading day is a Friday), the expiry day will be changed to the following business day. Please note that trading in this case is not allowed on both the Friday and the following business day.