2. DEFINITION, SET UP AND CESSATION POLICY

2.1 DEFINITION OF THE INDEX

The Euronext Single Stock Indices Family is designed to reflect exposure to single stock names while assuming a constant dividend markdown. This markdown is a constant index point deduction expressed in index points.

2.2 SET UP OF THE PRICE INDEX

The index is calculated on a price return basis. The initial set up of the Index is based on a number of shares of 100, a Free Float of 1 and a capping factor of 1 (no capping involved). The initial divisor of the Index is set at 100. The base value at inception is equal to the latest published official closing price on the last trading day before the inception day.

2.3 WHEN WILL INDICES CEASE TO EXIST

The index will cease to exist when a particular corporate action will give rise to this, this is further discussed in Chapter 4 Specific Corporate Action Treatments. In case the index will cease to exist, this will be announced via the usual channels. The announcement policy is described in the Euronext Indices Announcement policy document that is available on indices.euronext.com/index-rules.

2.4 RESPONSIBILITY FOR DECISION TO CEASE THE INDEX

The decision to cease the index belongs to the Administrator.

3.3 PUBLICATION

The level of the Index is calculated and published on the days when the Euronext Markets are open for trading, using the latest published price or the latest published official closing price, as applicable, of each Index constituent on its related market. In the case of Index constituents that have either not traded or are halted/suspended, the previous day's reference prices or estimated prices (for IPOs, buyouts and swap offers) shall be utilized.

The level of the index is published once a day shortly after the closing of Euronext markets.

4. SPECIFIC CORPORATE ACTION TREATMENTS

4.1 STOCK SPLITS AND REVERSE STOCK SPLITS

For bonus issues, stock splits and reverse stock splits, the number of shares included in the underlying price index will be adjusted in accordance with the ratio given in the corporate action. The divisor will not be changed because of this.

4.2 RIGHTS ISSUES

In the event of a rights issue the index is adjusted based on the value of the rights only. The divisor of the underlying price index will be adapted in such a way that the level of the index remains the same.

The Indices will only be adjusted if the rights represent a positive value.

Other Rights

The index will also be adjusted if a value can be attributed to a subscription right for convertible bonds, bonds with warrants or warrants with preferential rights for shareholders or similar situations.

If the value cannot be attributed straightforward, the Administrator may also decide to include the detached instrument for one day and adjust the index at the close based on the closing price for that instrument on that day.

4.3 PARTIAL TENDER OFFERS ON OWN SHARES

The divisor of the index will be adjusted if the premium represents more than 5% of the share price of the close on the penultimate trading day before the ex-date (the day prior to the last day before the ex-day). The premium is calculated as the difference between the offered price and the closing price, multiplied by the percentage of the share capital targeted in the offer.

An adjusted close is calculated for the Company in line with the terms of the tender offer. If the divisor is adjusted, the number of shares in the index will be adjusted as well.

4.4 SPLIT UP / SPIN OFF

In the event that a company included in the index is split up, the companies resulting from the split, including the original company where appropriate will continue to be included in the index for one day. The Company that was spun-off will be removed from the Index after the close of the first day of trading in the shares of that company.

Subsequently the divisor of the underlying price index will be adjusted such that the index level remains the same.

For the purposes of these rules a split up is taken to mean a legal demerger, a spin-off or another situation which Index Design deems to be similar. The distribution by an index constituent of shares in a company which is already listed is in principle treated as a spin off unless the distribution takes place in lieu of an ordinary dividend.

In case the shareholder of the company which was originally included in the index does not automatically receive shares in a company which is created as a result of the split up, this company is considered to be a newly listed company and not a spin off.

4.4 MERGERS AND ACQUISITIONS

Acquisitions in cash

In the event of a bid in cash, the Index remains in place without any adjustments. Euronext will continue calculating the Index.

Mergers and takeovers in shares

In the event of a merger, acquisition or similar situation where the bid is made in the form of shares, the Company will be replaced by the newly formed company, provided the newly formed company is trading in the same currency and is listed on Euronext markets. The replacement will take place in line with the schedule of the transaction. The replacement of the newly formed company will be executed on the basis of the bid ratio. In case the newly formed company is trading in a different currency or is not listed on an Euronext market, the Index will cease to exist. This will take place in line with the schedule of the transaction.

Mixed transactions

In case of a mixed bid of cash and shares the bid will be treated as merger in shares if the share part amounts to at least 75% of the offer price, on the day of the publication of the terms of the offer. The replacement of the shares of the relevant index constituent by the shares of the company that continues to be traded will be executed on the basis of the bid ratio. The divisor will be adapted only for the cash part of the offer price.

Specific treatments

Index Design reserves the right to apply a specific treatment in non-standard situations including but not limited to:

- Competing bids with differing closing dates or structures;
- Offers made without the intention to gain full control.

In case of a specific treatment a separate announcement detailing the specific treatment will be issued timely to the market.

4.5 SUSPENSION, DELISTING AND LEVEL DROPPING BELOW 0

Suspension

In the event that the trading in shares is suspended, the last known price established during regular daytime trading will be used for the calculation of the index.

If a Company is suspended, Index Design will consider whether the Index should be ceased or not within five trading days. If it is decided to maintain the Index a further reassessment date will be set. Index Design reserves the right to take action before that date if new developments give reason to do so.

In case the Index will cease to exist, it will be done on a day determined and announced in advance by Index Design Committee.

Delisting

If it has been officially announced that a constituent will be delisted from the relevant market, the Index will cease to exist after the close of the fifth (full) business day after the announcement. In case of short time notice Index Design may determine an earlier date for stopping of the Index. When the index will cease to exist, the closing level of that day is the last closing level of the index.

Index level dropping below 0

In case the level of the decrement version of the index will be below 0 at the end of the day, this Index level will be kept at 0.01. The Price, Gross and Net versions of the Index will be kept at that specific end of day closing level.
